We are authorized to announce
E. S. CANDLER
as a candidate for congress from this, the First Congressional district, subject to the action of the Democratic primary.

A WORKING STATESMAN.

Every man has some main characteristic, some distinguished quality or trait that becomes a part of him and all men think of in connection with him when he is thought of. With some men this main characteristic is the gift of gab; with others hard work.

It is the good and well deserved fortune of Mr. Candler in his twelve years service in Congress to have made his name a synonym for industry in the performance of his official duties. Faithful and energetic he has ever been. No enemy can point to a duty neglected, an opportunity to serve his people lost.

His service to his constituents has been devoted, not in the way of self serving declarations, or in that easiest of all ways—lip service, but in actual work that brought material results.

The first congressional district of Mississippi has fared well during Mr. Candler's terms of office. It has had the full share in the government of the nation that it was entitled to, and has received every bit of the governmental benefits that is its due. It will be hard for his opponent to show one instance in which he or any other man could have done more for his district than Mr. Candler.

There is no necessity nor any desire to excuse Mr. Candler for not making more speeches in Congress than he has. On the contrary his substitution of work for talk is adduced as evidence of his good sense and his fitness for the place. We all know what sort of people chose their lawyers by their voices and verbosity, and measure men by the quantity of their talk and not the merit and result of their actions. And talk and work and their value and effectiveness stand in the same relation in Congress that they do at the bar and in every day life. In fact work stands even relatively higher there from the fact so many are in that assembly with the gift of tongue and language.

Mr. Candler has been eminently successful as a congressman. No just criticism can be urged against his service in Washington. Not in statesmanship but in peanut politics will his opponent find arguments against him.

And mark the words—there will be something peccayunish and pea-nutty in every single thing urged against him in the campaign.

The great benefits that will be derived from the eradication of the tick in Noxubee county are so well recognized that it is generally believed that the number of cattle in the county will be doubled in less than five years. In other words where we now have 20,000 head of stock there will be 40,000 and their value as well as their number will be doubled. Three-fourths of the cattle in this section are grade Jerseys, which have very little value as beef cattle, but a number of the heavier breeds are being introduced and in a few years from now, it is confidently believed, cattle and kindred industries and not cotton will be our chief dependence.

FROM THE PEOPLE

To the Farmers of Noxubee County:
I feel that my duty demands that I send out a letter of warning to the farmers of this county in regard to the probable infestation of your cotton with boll weevils. Right now the crop prospect is not good. There is so much cotton that is young and can't possibly mature a full crop by August 1st, and much of the crop is badly in need of work. The plants are small for this period of the year.

It is very evident now that but for the severe winter we would have had left countless numbers of weevils to attack our crops this season. They are showing up in great numbers in 1911 infested counties, and it is very likely that they are in this county, though in diminished numbers. I have so far seen no signs of them, but that should not lessen your vigilance for any signs in your crop. Watch for fallen squares and the first ones you find, if you are not sure they have not been punctured by weevils put a few in a bottle and keep them there for 8 or 12 days.

I believe the farmers are making this crop on an economical basis as possible, and if this is true, a short crop will not hurt so much as we fear now it will.

There is a good deal now being done by the cotton boll worms. They are eating into the squares and the squares then fall off. I have found as many as six on one stalk of cotton. These worms can do a great deal of damage in a short time if unmolested. No way, has, as yet, been devised to combat this pest, but we do know that the green worm, the larva, soon attains its growth, then burrows in the ground to develop into the mature, yellowish colored moth which deposits eggs that make more worms. The number can be reduced by frequent cultivations of the cotton, because these burrowing worms will be exposed to the sun's hot rays.

Cotton should be worked as often as once a week and very shallow. It is a plant that responds to good care as well as any crop we grow.

I am very anxious about the feed crops of this county. If a short crop of corn is made this year you will be in a bad shape to make next year's crop. The prospects for a corn crop at present is very unpromising. Much of it is very young and the frequent rains have been against its growth. Most farmers fail on a feed crop when they fail to make corn. If your corn is a failure you make no substitutes for it. Up to the 15th of July you still have plenty of time to grow soy beans, peanuts and cow peas, and any one is as good, pound for pound, as corn to feed your mules.

I shall be glad to talk to any one about this work. I am here to be used and I always feel that you need me when you call on me.

J. W. HADDON,
Commissioner of Agriculture of Noxubee County.

A Distinguished Mississippi Woman.

From the "Oklahoma Club Woman" we take the following concerning a native of this county, who has gained distinction in a western state:

Miss Anne Wade O'Neil has the distinction of being the youngest State Parliamentarian in the United States. Miss O'Neil is a Mississippian by birth has enjoyed exceptional educational advantages, has traveled abroad and is recognized as one of the bright lights of the Federation. It is in great part due to her efforts that Oklahoma can boast of the I. I. and C. for which institution she has since done a great deal. The College Bulletin says of her in substance: "At a most critical moment in the history of the institution, Miss O'Neil with indomitable faith and enthusiasm again stepped into the breach—and through her efforts the school was saved to the womanhood of the new state."

A Land Mark Removed.

The old Boggess and Holman livery stable, which was built in 1878 by a contractor named Sanford, who rebuilt many of the brick buildings in Macon after the disastrous fire of that year, which wiped out the entire business section of Macon with the exception of one block, has been torn down and in its place Messrs. Millard & LaRue, general contractors of West Point will erect for Mr. W. W. Shannon, a $10,000 brick and cement stable. It will be one of the most complete in the state. Work will commence as soon as the material can be placed on the ground.

PASTURE.

I will pasture cattle on my place nine miles east of Macon. Plenty of water, shade and grass.
